Post eMS – Future of the Interreg monitoring system

11 April 2019
Vienna, Austria

Outline

Through cooperative development with many Interreg programmes, Interact built the eMS monitoring system for the current period. With over 30 Interreg programmes using the eMS, some 60,000 users enter data into the system which manages more than €4 billion of cooperation money EU-wide.

Based on a survey conducted by Interact in 2018, and the last meeting of the eMS user group in October 2018, there is a clear support from the community for this to continue. The Interact Monitoring Committee has expressed general support for the project but no final decision has yet been made.

Interact has started preparing for the future, in order to be able to provide a new system in time, should we get approval from our Monitoring Committee. The goal is to be able to procure and develop a new system in time for the new programming period. Initial views include making the new system more streamlined, bringing the technological up-to-date and eliminating known systemic issues.

Programmes which do not use eMS are also invited to join programmes that do, so we can all contribute to the discussion on the future of the common monitoring system and how we can best involve programmes in its development.

Objectives

During the meeting, we will present the Interact proposal for the new project and the envisioned timeline. There will be ample opportunity to discuss the proposal as well as common goals for the future monitoring system and how we could structure its development and involve programmes.

Based on the proposed legal package and our experience with the eMS, we will start identifying potential features needed to make a new system effective in addressing challenges of the 2021-2028 period.

Finally, based on our discussions, we invite programmes wishing to support the project, to inform MAs and MC representatives.
